Defense Depot pollution is topic

The Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry will host two "public availability" sessions today to discuss its report on health issues related to contamination at the old Defense Depot Memphis.

The sessions are scheduled for 1-3 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. at the South Memphis Senior Center, 1620 Marjorie.

ATSDR representatives will be available at the sessions to answer questions and listen to comments from the community.

The health assessment issued recently by the agency said there currently is "no apparent public health hazard" to people living near the depot, although it called for additional testing along drainage ditches.
